Commissions On Government Insurance Among Juiciest Political Patronage Plums

Editor's Note — Reporter Richard L. Graves of the Harrisburg AP staff tells how the State of Pennsylvania handles insurance premiums in a three-part series for morning newsmen. This is the second article.

By Richard Graves

HARRISBURG (AP)—In Pennsylvania, commissions on government insurance are among the juiciest political patronage plums. They fall to the party faithful without fuss or paperwork. The recipients—insurance men—merely endorse commission checks received from insurance firms. It is as legal as the General Assembly can make it.

The system is stoutly defended by political leaders. They say it supports the free enterprise system.

For example, Gov. Lawrence, an insurance man in private life, gave a flat "yes" at a news conference when asked if he favored continuing "patronage insurance."

Explanation

Asked how the brokers or agents are selected, he explained:

"You usually pick your friends—just like you do in private business. Where do you get your fire insurance and life insurance? With some friend that solicits you. What's wrong about it?"

Clayton A. Moul, York, is the state's broker of record for insurance. Although not actually a state employee, he gets a flat $15,000 a year fee out of commissions paid by the insurance firms. Moul explains the system this way:

"Under the present law, commissions earned on insurance premiums written for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are commissions payable from insurance company funds. They are not Commonwealth funds. They are commissions earned from business done by private enterprise, namely the insurance company, and in this instance doing business with the state."

Why can't the Commonwealth get the commissions?

Because the Pennsylvania insurance laws firmly spell out in several sections that rebates in any form are illegal. The laws are aimed at preventing insurance men and firms from participating in cut-throat competition with each other. They are not aimed at the state, but the effect of the law has been to prevent the state from benefitting from the commissions.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Ashton Funeral Home, 14th and Northampton Sts., Easton. Rev. Harry H. Mau will officiate, and burial will be in Easton Heights Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Friday between 7 and 9 p.m.

Dates Set

For Clambake

BANGOR — The annual clambake of the Liberty Fire Co.

will be held at Holland's Grove Aug. 9 under the direction of the house committee composed of Gilmore Strunk, chairman; John Owens and Charles Fogel.

William Price will put on the bake, open only to active and social members of the company. Aug. 5 is the deadline for tickets.

"Who gets the commission money," said Bradley, "is decided after consultation with party leaders. It is distributed on an arbitrary basis."

The last insurance split was May 2 with $34,600 divided among 70 agents or firms in amounts ranging from $50 to $4,000. Three killers have been caught.

Nixon is understood to have talked in general terms to Khrushchev in Moscow about the Soviet leader's desire to visit the United States.

One informant said that in talking with Khrushchev, Nixon used the expressions "when you visit the United States" and "if you visit the United States." On these occasions Nixon was reported trying to drive home the point that a fist-hand look in the United States would convince the Soviet leader he was wrong on certain basic information and could learn on a visit.

First Week Of August Marks 50th Anniversary Of Bank

THE FIRST WEEK of August marks the 50th anniversary of the founding of member banks of the Monroe Security Bank and Trust Co.

During the 50 years, mergers have changed the bank's name three times. Originally it was the Security Trust Co. of Stroudsburg, then it became the Stroudsburg Security Trust Co., and finally a merger gave it its present name.

The surviving institution is not the oldest one. The oldest was the Monroe County National Bank started in 1900.

Frank B. Michaels is now honorary president and was an organizer of the original bank formed in 1909.

Robert Davenport, senior assistant vice president announced yesterday the bank's deposits are up one million dollars since the same time last year. The local loans that the bank makes to business and individuals within the community total 12½ million dollars. Total assets of the commercial department are $19,885,000 and assets of the trust department are $3,500,000.

A person who has an account in one of the four branches of the bank may also conduct business in any one of the other branches in Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg, Mountainhome and Brodheadsville.

In May the bank instituted the first electronic bookkeeping system in the area.

Fire Burns Property On Milford Road

AN INCINERATOR fire behind the property of Victor H. Dimmick, 749 Milford Road, East Stroudsburg, spread and burned over approximately 2,000 square feet of grass yesterday.

East Stroudsburg Fire Chief Clarence Strunk said his men were called out at 4:30 p.m. to put out the fire started by the uncovered incinerator.

Booster Line

The firemen used a booster line.

Strunk reminded residents that they are required to have a half-inch wire mesh on their incinerators.

Proposal Out Of Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans and Southern Democrats united Tuesday in throwing out a proposal to give the Justice Department broad injunction powers in civil rights cases.

The proposal, urged by advocates of stronger civil rights legislation, was beaten 18-13 in the House Judiciary Committee. It met behind closed doors for section-by-section consideration of a new bill in this field.

Same Time — At almost the same time Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo) moved in the Senate to attach a similar injunction clause to a bill giving rights forces so far have been unable to put out of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) of the House committee said he could understand the motives of Dixie Democrats in fighting the injunction proposal, "but the lack of logic of the Republican members is past understanding."

Celler's proposal would allow the U.S. attorney general to seek federal court injunctions in support of all types of civil rights. Two years ago—when Congress enacted the first major civil rights bill in more than 80 years—a broad injunction section was cut out before it went to the White House. That law limits the Justice Department's injunction authority to voting rights cases only.

Pass Pensions For Dependents

HARRISBURG (AP)—Third class cities were authorized Tuesday to grant pensions to widows of policemen, firemen and other municipal employees killed in the line of duty.

The authority, which is not mandatory, is contained in two companion bills signed by Gov. Lawrence.

Under the new law, city councils may pass ordinances granting pensions to widows of city employees killed after Jan. 1, 1960 equal to half of their husbands' pensions for the rest of their lives or until they remarry.

Negotiations Remain Same At Valparaiso

POCONO PINES — Negotiations began in 1958 by Valparaiso University in Indiana to buy and convert a 2,000-acre resort here have progressed no further, the director of the university's information service has said.

The university wanted to turn Pocono Crest, formerly known as Lutherford, into one of three junior colleges it intended to develop across the country. The other two would be in Texas and on the West Coast.

Pocono Crest includes three lodges, an inn, three camps, and more than 200 other buildings on the property.

Understanding

"It is my understanding we would like to start as soon as possible with some sort of program at Pocono," Carl F. Galow Jr., director of information said.

"But current problems, legal and otherwise, make statements of any definite nature highly impractical at this point."

Valparaiso held the largest single interest in the property—about $80,000—when negotiations were in progress in 1958, a university spokesman said at the time.

The controlling interest would be somewhere between $150,000 to $350,000, it has been estimated.

The group also went on record as being opposed to the removal of the Mount Pocono State Police Sub-Station.

Three delegates were appointed to the national convention of the American Automobile Assn. to be held in Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 22 and 23. They were Frank S. LaBar, Clifford Cramer and Mrs. John Watt.

Mine Interests Request Continuance Of Pumping

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pumping operations at the site of the Knox mine disaster in Luzerne County should be continued on an emergency basis, Gov. Lawrence was told Tuesday by the Glen Alden Coal Corp., Wilkes-Barre.

Harry W. Bradbury, Glen Alden president, said seepage from the mine where 12 miners were entombed by floodwaters in January threaten the operations of his and other mines in the area around Port Griffith.

Bradbury asked that the state continue its pumping, stopped July 24, "for a short duration" until neighboring mine companies can devise methods of safeguarding their operations.

Lawrence invited the following to meet with him on Monday: Eugene Schonier, president of the Lehigh Valley Industries; Hans Kaliski, also of Lehigh Valley; Lewis Pagnotti, president of the Sullivan Trail Coal Co.; G. B. Fillmore, president of Hudson Coal Co.; and J. A. Martin, president of the Pennsylvania Coal Co. and Bradbury.

The state spent an estimated $1,300,000 for pumping out the mine before it discontinued the operation last week.

Lawrence invited the following to meet with him on Monday: Eugene Schonier, president of the Lehigh Valley Industries; Hans Kaliski, also of Lehigh Valley; Lewis Pagnotti, president of the Sullivan Trail Coal Co.; G. B. Fillmore, president of Hudson Coal Co.; and J. A. Martin, president of the Pennsylvania Coal Co. and Bradbury.

Bradbury, after his meeting with the governor, told the Associated Press that no damage has been caused yet by the water seepage.

"But there will be damage if it is allowed to continue," he said.

"My company is particularly interested in being able to

More Emphasis On Skin Tests

HARRISBURG (AP) — Greater emphasis will be placed on skin testing for tuberculosis than on chest x-rays in the future, the State Health Department said Tuesday.

Secretary Charles L. Wilbar said skin testing is a "better screening tool" for younger age groups and low incident groups.

Nikita On Trip

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev made a flying trip to the Ukraine Tuesday while Vice President Richard M. Nixon was opening his tour of Siberia.

A Tass dispatch said Khrushchev arrived in Dnepropetrovsk, visited a large machine-building works and addressed a big meeting.

Details of his speech were not given.

Four Hurt In Auto Accident

POCONO LAKE — State Police here reported a one-car accident occurred at 3 p.m. yesterday in which four persons were injured. The extent of their injuries was not readily known.

Police said the car was operated by Robert Christian, 38, of 110 North Ave., Jim Thorpe, and the vehicle struck a utility pole on Hickory Run Road, one mile from the intersection of Route 903 at Albrightsville. Police said the group was returning from a berry picking trip when the accident happened.

Children

Injured, in addition to Christian, were James J. Gobert, of 106 North Ave., Jim Thorpe, and Christian's foster children, Paulette, 6, Robert, 9, and Edward Koons, 10.

The group is being held in Gnaden Huetten Memorial Hospital, Lehighton, for observation.

Police said the car was demolished by the impact of hitting the pole.

Highway Unit Asks For Halt

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Highway Department Tuesday asked Dauphin County to stop the Philadelphia Electric Co. from what it termed "continuous interference" with construction of limited access highways in Montgomery and Delaware counties.

The department filed a brief which said the utility has refused to relocate gas mains from condemned rights of way.

'Forget-Me Not' Telephone Center Saves Time, Tempers, Provides Message Spot

THIS WEEK'S contribution to more peace at home, brotherly love, and no lost messages, lies in the direction of an easy to build telephone shelf and message slate.

It provides a happy home for wandering telephone books while it helps eliminate the national problem of keeping a pad and pencil near a telephone where it's most needed and seldom found when needed.

The full size pattern offered below simplifies building this shelf. When fastened into position, the book, telephone and piece of chalk brings peace and tranquility.

Messages need no longer be scribbled on inconspicuous pieces of paper that blow with the breeze. When a call comes in, it can be written down with chalk on the blackboard. When the recipient gets it, off it goes.

This brings peace where panic usually reigns when important messages are lost. Someone always calls, someone always answers, but seldom does the message get through.

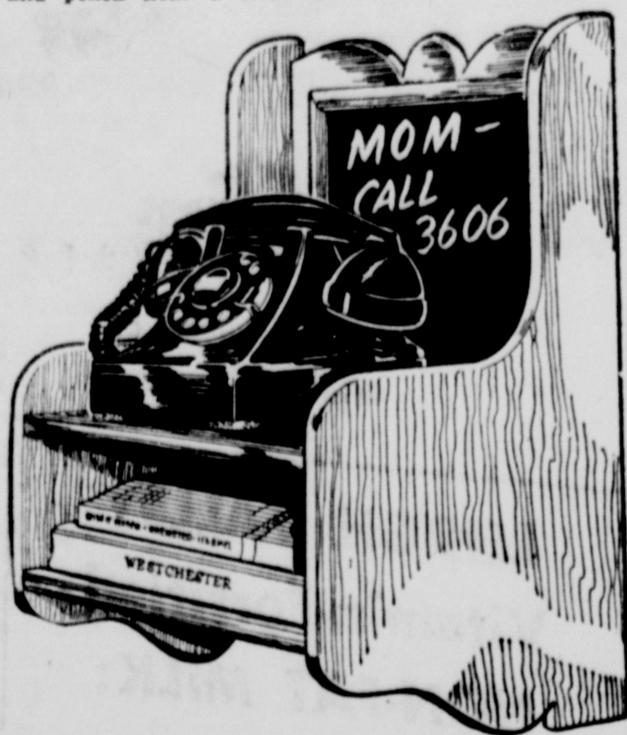

This "life can be beautiful" project can be built in an evening's time if you follow the pattern offered below.

Simply trace the pattern on wood, the pattern specifies, then glue and nail the parts together. A complete list of materials tells exactly what to buy and where each piece is used.

Send 25¢ in coin for Forget-me-not Telephone Shelf, Pattern No. 313, The Daily Record P. O. Box 215, Pleasantville, N.Y. Send additional 35 cents for 64 page catalog illustrating over 300 other build it yourself projects. If you want this offer sent First Class Mail send 25 cents.

Three Bedrooms 'Must' In Home For Modern Family

IF YOUR desires are typical, your image of the ideal home is one not too big, but feels more spacious than its square footage indicates. Three bedrooms are a must to satisfactorily meet the needs of your family today and next year. A full bath and extra lavatory are necessities along with a real dining space and a functional kitchen.

Lots of storage space rounds out this perfect home image. And in this week's featured home, H-433, this image becomes a reality.

Informality coupled with neatness distinguishes the exterior. Ledge stone contrasted with vertical board and batten imports a crispness that is certain to win approving nods from passersby.

An entry is created in the living room by a smart china closet facing the dining area.

To the right is the guest closet and to the left is the elegant living room.

Smart touches are conspicuously evident: the floor-to-ceiling picture window, the charming low fireplace of attractive ledge rock and magnificent mirror piece occupying the wall above.

Adjacent to the fireplace is a built-in bookcase which can also be used for knickknacks. The dining area has its own window for daylighting due to the garage set back.

To the left is the kitchen. With an L design, the budget housewife can swing a skillet with the greatest of ease here. There's even room for a breakfast nook.

As this home is without a basement, utilities and laundry are grouped in an area adjacent to the kitchen and within one or two steps of the backdoor. This, of course, is precise-

Flush Door
May Be Made
From Panel

A HOME handyman can convert an old-fashioned panel door into a modern flush-type door in a few hours. A flush door, with its flat surface, presents a modern appearance and makes cleaning an easy task.

Just apply plastic-surfaced Marlite paneling over the entire old door surface. First, to complete a solid base, build up the door panel depressions with pieces of insulating board to a level even with the rest of the door. These pieces and the new paneling may be secured with adhesive, braced or clamped until firmly set.

Matching Molding
Matching molding may be used around the edges of the door. The new plastic-surfaced door panel may be chosen in a plain color, woodgrain or marble pattern to blend with a wall installation of the same kind of paneling. Or it may serve as a decorative accent.

The baked plastic surface of the refurbished door will resist finger marks, dirt and wear, and Marlite can be cleaned with a damp or sudsy cloth.

If the paneling is to be applied to the side where the door will close on it, the door stop or hinges will have to be reset.

Novel Decor In Child's Room
TO INCREASE the visual interest in a child's bedroom or recreation room, frame the doorway with a strip of Marlite paneling in a color different from the adjacent areas. Plastic-surfaced hardboard for this accent band may come from leftover material from a kitchen or bathroom remodeling project.

Plastic Helps To Protect Stairways

TIME SPENT on stairway upkeep can be reduced substantially by paneling the area with a decorative material that is designed to resist hard wear, since scuff marks can ruin many wall finishes.

Stairway walls commonly acquire a broad smudgy band along the hand rail because hands have a way of wandering from rail to wall, and even bypassing the rail. Another smudgy band appears on the opposite wall, even if it has no rail, where the wall is touched for assurance and support.

Paneling
These walls can be kept looking attractive by covering them with a wainscot of Marlite plastic-surfaced paneling to slightly above rail-height. The baked finish resists hand marks and other soiling, and it's quickly wiped clean with a damp cloth.

Plastic-surfaced planks and blocks have tongue-and-groove edges which allow for expansion and contraction

Just Between Us —

By Bobby Westbrook

What do we do now? We caught the kitten, but that seems to be only the beginning of the problems. Where we once had a wild cat on the loose, we've got us a lion-hearted cat in a cage.

The initial sneaky part was mine. I propped open the screen door, put the food inside the kitchen, and when the kitten followed his father in to eat, shut the door. Further strategy got the kitten shut up in the pantry, but there my part ended.

It took three assorted nieces and nephews with a broom, gathering gloves, and an hour to spend, to transfer the kitten from behind the refrigerator to a former rabbit hutch. Now what? Will heredity triumph over early environment?

Will the centuries since the days of the Pharaohs that cats were house pets overcome being born and bred for two months in the wild? Right now, it looks doubtful. However, the experience is likely to tame the cousin if not the cat.

Since loud noises and sudden movements send the cat into a fury of racing about the cage, we are probably the most low-voiced, stately-paced family in the area. Which is hard on the youngest niece who is only eight, and apt to lapse into Italian, with gestures, at any moment.

However, it does wonders for family harmony. A brother-sister argument, carried on in hisses, is hard to get off the ground and it's too much trouble to go outside to really shout it out. Therefore the loudest noise around our house yesterday were the television commercials. I hope the kitten is benefitting by our good example.

The Baby's Named!

Y Day Camp For Girls Includes Trips, Nature, Swimming, Purse For Pennies

By Enay Seigel

Day camp is often considered a place to send the children off to in order to get them away for the day. But the YMCA day camp offers this and more. It gives the children a chance to learn to share with others and meet children from all walks of life.

The girl's camp at Sayor's Lake under the supervision of Mrs. Daniel Miller is held for two periods of two weeks each. In each of the periods a trip is taken to Hershey Park, Hershey, side trips are taken to the Pocono Playhouse or Mountainhome as well as everyday camp activities such as swimming, boating, craft work, games and nature walks.

While on the nature walks the girls collect flowers, weeds and grasses and then press them between newspapers and mount their collections on paper and cover them with a transparent covering.

In the craft department one of the projects is to make a purse. This has a two-fold purpose in that it gives the children something to do with their hands and also holds the two pennies given to them at the end of the day by the management of Sayor's Lake to spend or save as they wish. This is a long standing custom that the present management of the lake is continuing.

The waterfront department instructs in rowing boats, swimming and life saving instruction.

Swimming is safeguarded by the "buddy system."

The children leave the YMCA by bus in the morning. Upon arrival at the lake they have their "thought for the day" which is given them by their counselors. Following "the thought" they go on a nature walk and then play games.

They come down from the spacious recreation area and head for the lake to swim. Following the swimming they eat lunch and then have an assembly time. The children bring their own lunches and each table collects money for milk. Following the assembly during which songs are sung and announcements are made some campers take the boats out on the lake and others work on crafts. The decision as to who does what is done on a rotation basis.

By now lunch is digested and the girls usually swim until it is time to get their two cents and go home. They return by bus to the YMCA. Naturally there are variations to a day's schedule but this is generally the plan which they follow.

S-Burg LL Stars Win, 3-2

Muller's HR Margin As Bising Wins

FREEMAN'S BURG—Johnny Muller's two-run homer—the only hit made by his team—lifted Stroudsburg Little League All-Stars to a 3-2 victory over Northeast of Bethlehem in a District 20 Little League State semi-final playoff game here last night.

Muller's blast over the left field fence co-starred with the clutch pitching of Glenn Bising who after a shaky first three innings, settled down and stopped Northeast the last three frames to record his second hill triumph.

Stroudsburg, by winning, will meet the winner of the Quakertown-Lehigh game Friday at Lehigh University's Taylor Stadium, Bethlehem, starting at 8 p.m.

Bising, 16-2 mound victor over Pen Argyl in his last start, experienced control trouble in the first and especially the second and third. In the second inning his wildness led to Northeast's two runs. However, he managed to get out of it and strand three Northeast players on the bases.

In the third he also got out of a bases loaded jam without a run scoring. But from here on out he was master, keeping Northeast away from the run doo.

Hill Scores

Stroudsburg's first run came in the third after Northeast had shot away to a 2-0 edge in the second. Danny Hill started Stroud off with a walk and Richie Dishman followed with another bases on balls. Bobby Davies then bunted and Northeast's catcher Ed Sauer mitted the ball and threw to second attempting to double off Hill. But the horsehide went into center-field and Hill scampered home with the first Stroudsburg tally.

Northeast's two runs in the second were set up when Bising hit Barry Erb with a pitched ball and Shannon walked. Erb scored on wild pitch and Shannon tallied on Sauer's single.

The Northeast 2-1 lead held until the last of the fifth and the eventual losers brought in a new hurler to replace Kern who was ill. Erb, the replacement, hit Bising, and got Davies on a pop. Frantz grounded to short and Bising was forced at second. Here with two down Muller belted his game-winning blow and Frantz trotted in ahead of him.

Junior Tournament — Glen Brook professional Sam Kinder announced that there will be a tournament for the club's junior golfers Thursday, starting at 10 a.m.

Manager Russell (Nip) Nevil, "kin" of the Woolworth millions, piloted the Stroudsburg Firemen to a 14-13 victory over Stroud Township's Smokey Stovers Sunday.

Nevil plans to have his chattels go on a tour next month, engaging all fire companies in the mountains area.

Nevil's ace hurler, Tony Gilpin, won't be available for duty, having come up with a sore finger in his only start of the season. Ready for mound action, however, are Arch Rundle, Chet Gross, Sam Everitt or Floyd (Pettie) Kresge.

Don Gage, the IBW tub-thumper and East Stroudsburg firemen's best publicist, is working on a softball game between the pair in the near future.

Gage, a substitute on either team, hopes to get a three-game series going for the wrong-way title of Eastburg.

MIDST OF NORTHEAST RALLY—Vince Shanon, Northeast player streaks into third on Glen Bising's wild pitch last night in Little League playoff game at Freemansburg. Stroudsburg third sacker Bob Davenport, holds up hand to tell catcher Skippy Kintz to hold ball. Northeast scored two runs in this inning (second) but later saw Stroudsburg come back and win, 3-2.

GLEN BROOK GOLF—Glen Brook golf fanatics are having themselves good seasons this year. Such male performers on the links as Claude Cramer, Charley Drake, Ben Williams, Dr. Tony Harlacher, Cliff Heller, Jess Haynes, Dr. Herb Jago, Dutch Altemose and GB proxy Bob Schell are having themselves a ball every time they hit the fairways.

Many times, however, the little pill doesn't do what the doctor prescribes. All in all fun prevails at each match.

Ladies also are going great on the Glen Brook course. Feminine gals stroking their way are Vi Shafer, Nadine Locksmith, Mrs. Jess Haynes, Peg Cramer and always, it seems, a winner Miss Betsy Peaney.

INCIDENTALLY Sam Kinder will hold his own tournament at Glen Brook this Sunday. The well-liked "Brook" professional has a program lined up that will bring out practically all of the club's membership. Included is a late feed which has the touch of Oscar of the Waldorf.

Charley Potcher isn't hitting them as well these days. Big Pooch alibis that he is too strong for his clubs. Could be because Potcher is one of the longest ball hitters around.

Speaking of long-ball hitting golfers, Harold Stettler claims he hit the green on the 885-yard 17th hole at Tamiment in two strokes last week.

But the powerful buster refused to say how many putts it took to drop the little nugget. It wasn't five-par either.

Howard Clugston, the Eagles day and night host, can't wait for the hunting season to get underway. The story-telling Bird man promises to get his quota this year in rabbits and deer even if it means he has to take a day off.

He has been practicing daily, sharpening his eyes for the fall shooting season.

JOHN WATT, THE FIRST BANKER of Stroudsburg, wants it known he has improved his golf game this year. While the scores don't indicate such boast, Watt notes he is losing less balls.

Everybody is the talk of a banker when the voice is in the economy.

10-3 Victors In LL Action

BRODHEADSVILLE — Scoring six runs in the first two frames, Brodheadsville built up a substantial lead, enough to turn back Kunkletown, 10-3, in a West End Little League game Monday.

Beehler, with three hits, and Sniffin, Kresge and Dorshimer, with two each, supplied the batting punch for the winners. Weaver went all the way to record the mound win.

Lloyd and Andrews, with two safeties apiece, were the hitting stars for Kunkletown. Knecht, the first of two hurlers, took the mound loss.

'Howie' Wins Praise At Pocono Playhouse

By Keith Edinger

MOUNTAINHOME — Monday night the Pocono Playhouse did it again—as they presented "Howie," a three-act comedy by Phoebe Ephron that was terrifically laugh-prone and beautifully performed.

The majestic acclaim of the play goes to Leon Ames, not in the title role but as the harassed, frustrated father-in-law to a psychological phenomenon called Howie Dickerson. Ames plays the part of Walter Simms and Charles Hohnan the part of Howie.

Though both the performances were tremendous, Ames again proves that experience and true knowledge of your craft are what pay off. Ames' every action, facial expression, line, right down to what he did with his hands was pure perfection. He made the audience know he was living this part and drew them right on stage.

Nancy Sheridan does a fine job in support as Edith Simms the wife of Walter. Her seemingly soothing ways gave good balance to the other performances.

"Howie" evolves around the Simms family which is saddled with a "No-It-All" (who really does) son-in-law (unemployed) named Howie. Howie proceeds to throw the family in an uproar because he is basically very honest and lacking in the social graces of telling a little complimentary lie and keeping his "mouth shut".

Other than quoting stock quotations before Walter can read them in the evening paper (Walter's one pleasure in life), finishing Edith's crossword puzzle (the one thing she waits all week for) and walking through the living room on his way to the kitchen in his pajamas when Sally Simms (Shirley Rhodes), sister-in-law, and her boyfriend are occupying the family sofa — Howie isn't really too much of a nuisance.

However, Howie sees the error of his ways and instead of letting people adjust to him, he decides to adjust to people. This leads to taking a test for a quiz show and of course passing with flying colors. The climax is pinnacled when Howie refuses the money he wins on the show because the other contestant was told his answer was wrong and Howie said he was right. This only proves Howie's basic honesty and the fact that he cannot change his ways.

One thing leads to another — the situation straightened out and Howie is to take a job somewhere on the other side of the world with the Civil Service. Of course this is a large delight to his father-in-law.

The scene in the television studio when Howie is on the quiz show was a delightful little jolt at quite shows—right down to the isolation booths and the commercials.

Sets are nicely designed and the sort-of-split-screen effect in the second act is very cleverly done.

Above all "Howie" is light and good entertainment. Although the lines are not outstandingly clever or anything awfully funny the actors, Leon Ames, Charles Hohnan, and Nancy Sheridan, give them a great deal of mirth. So much so that the audience times were gasping for breath.

It is not a long play and seems even shorter because of the pleasing pace with which it moves along.

Again may I salute Ames. Though I have seen much of his work on TV and in movies it was well worth the trip to see "Howie" and his really excellent performance.

As a little sidelight I might add, that although not one line was missed or almost no cues muffed—the curtain calls were all fouled-up. A very funny climax to a very funny play—played by very funny actors. Leave it in the script.

News Shows Favored On Equal Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed a bill Tuesday to meet a threat that political candidates and next year's national conventions might be kept off radio and television news shows.

The measure would exempt such shows—but not panel discussions—from a rule requiring that they give equal air time to all political candidates. A voice vote sent the bill to the House for action.

A provision was written in that stations and networks must attempt to present fairly all sides of question of political controversy even though they no longer would face the equal time restriction as to newscasts.

The legislation was designed to set aside a ruling by the Federal Communications Commission in the case of Lar America First Daly of Chicago, a splinter party candidate for something or other in almost every election that comes along. Daly tried for mayor this spring.

Claim

The FCC said he was entitled to as much time on newscasts as the Democratic and Republican candidates got. That was under a law which says all legally qualified candidates for a public office shall have equal access to radio-TV time.

This, up to 1959, had generally been taken to mean political speeches rather than news shows.

Spokesmen for the radio-TV industry protested that if the ruling were allowed to stand, they might have to give time to a dozen or score of candidates for president alone. So, they said, they might have to keep their cameras and microphones away from the national political conventions and some of the advance campaigning already shaping up.

Campaigning Congress members would be affected.

Legislation was sent to the Senate floor that would exempt any newscasts, news interview, documentary, spot news coverage and panel discussions from the equal time requirements.

An amendment to keep the requirement applying to panels, such as NBC's "Meet The Press" and CBS' "Face the Nation", was submitted by Sen. Clair Engle (D-Calif.) and adopted by a voice vote.

Engle lit up the FCC for what he called "its stupid, silly decision" in the Daly case. But he said there would be too much opportunity for abuse if panel programs were not subjected to the equal time rule.

Secor will also spend a half-day explaining certain requirements of the system.

A brief historical sketch of each area will be given at the respective churches concerning the founding of the church. At the third and final trip in the pilgrimage a brief service will be led by Pastor Zuch of the Hamilton Church.

Dr. John C. Apple will give greetings and Rev. Bechtold will outline the purpose of the pilgrimages.

Horace Walters and Frank Michaels make up the finance committee. Pastors and laymen attended the meeting from the Lutheran Churches in the country.

Rev. G. H. Bechtold, president of the historical society of the Lutheran Ministerium, announced that this is the first in a series of similar pilgrimages which will eventually cover the entire ministerium. Announcements will go out to all Lutherans for them to take advantage of this trip as well as any other interested persons.
